February Recap

We are working hard to get our schedule of events finalized so we can let everybody know what our plans are for the upcoming trailriding season. Terry has been working on cleaning and trimming the trails to get them ready for the fast approaching season. The crazy weather has everybody wanting to ride one day and staying inside the next..... "Welcome to the Ozarks" is what we say. If you don't like the weather today, just hold onto your saddles, tomorrow it will be different. Customers calling for reservations has picked up, so make your reservations soon!

FLYING R RANCH TESTIMONIALS and
FACEBOOK REVIEWS

This is the first time my friends and I stayed at Flying R. We have ridden at a lot of camps in Missouri. This one is excellent. We all will come back again. It is easy to get to with good roads. The campground is very nice. Stalls are large enough for my big mare and very safe and clean. The showers and bathrooms are immaculate. We love the tack for sale and the hand-dipped ice cream. The trails are beautiful, fun and just enough challenge not be boring. They have great maps and Terry will show you unmarked trails on his large ariel and topography map in the barn. We never got lost and felt it was easy to take an all day ride and not be afraid of getting lost. I would recommend this camp to anyone at any level of riding. They also have several round pens of various sizes to warm up your horse and a challenging trail obstacle course in camp. - Jan Stalcup
